

Until there have been sufficient technical tests performed to insure the BPL will not emit harmful interference to spectrum users between 550kHz and 100 MHz it should be band. If the issue of interference can be resolved, then it may be a good system. But only if it doesn't cause interference to the present users of the above mentioned spectrum. If there is any perceptible increase in the noise floor, I vote NO! Pat Wilson